English Bank Daily Adds to Strength of Its Position.

FRANCE RELEASES GOLD

This Country's Bank Statement So Favorable as to Cause Wide Comment,

NEW YORK, November 13.—While it may be a little too early to speak with positiveness about the matter, there may be a little too early to speak with positiveness about the matter, there were yet numerous indications this week which gathered continually greater strength as the week advanced that the end of whatever money stringency has recently been experienced, at least from an international point of view, is approaching. The first definite sign of this sort was the very strong weekly statement of condition submitted on Thursday by the Bank of England exhibiting a proportion of reserve to Habilities greater than has been recorded on this date at any corresponding time, with but two exceptions, within the last dozen years. The exceptions noted were the years 104 and 1968, when business was prostrate and money consequently in abnormal plenty everywhere.

Since Thursday, the English ibank has been adding even more to the strength of its position. Day after day it has reported a large increase in the amount of gold taken into the bank on halance, and to-day this sum nearly reached the large figure of $5,000,000. The largest single source from which this replenishment of the Bank of England has taken place has been the Bank of France, and there is no longer any doubt that the French bank is releasing gold freely for English account. It is expected that the Bank of England will get without competition the more than $3,000,000 of new gold offered in the open London market on Monday, and there are substantial reasons for believing that transfers of money from France to England will take place next week in larger volume than has hitherto been seen in the present year.

tial reasons for believing that transfers of money from France to England will take place next week in larger volume than has hitherto been seen in the present year.

The situation is indicating such a radical change for the better in London that numerous cables from English houses of the first importance were received in the financial district today, stating that in the judgment of those sending the dispatches the financial strain in London was at an end. If this proves to be the case a reduction in the Bank of England discount rate should be expected to take place in the relatively near future.

Excellent Shewing.

At home to-day the weekly bank statement made, as was foreshadowed to a greater or less extent yeaterday, a showing so much more favorable than was expected earlier in the week as to cause widespread comment. The truth seems to be that the 5 to 6 per cent. rate for call funds, the 4 3-4 to 5 per cent, rate for time money for all the longer periods and a 5 to 5 1-4 per cent, rate for sixty and ninety days use, that came to prevail here in the latter part of the week, were effective in unloosening a large store of private financial credit, just as a somewhat similar rate exerted the same influence six weeks ago. The definite result of it was that in the average form of the bank statement a decrease of $20,731,000 in loans, accompanied with a falling on of over $25,000,000 in cash and resulted in an increase in the surplus reserve of $1,725,000. The figures of the actual statement, which are rightly regarded in Wall Street as being the more significant of the two, were even better than the foregoing. The loss in cash here shown was less than $4,000,000, along with a decrease in loans of $33,600,000 and in deposits of $16,735,000.

The average surplus now stands at $5,769,000, a figure greater than has been commonly shown before at this season of the present decade. The actual surplus is $1,1243,000. The prime matter of importance in this regard is, of course, the question of the size of further drafts found to constitute the year's maximum.

Prices in the stock market to-day rose almost uniformly, the gains being greatest, however, in the group of copper mining and allied securities. Here the net advances averaged between one and two points, and their cause was consequently attributed to the plans that are now making in quite an open manner for the bringing together of a large number of independent copper-broducing interests under the single head of a new holding company. The working out of this arrangement will also doubtless include a curtaliment of copper production that is to last as long as the price of copper holds at its present low level.

Aside from the copper stocks to-day. Denver and Rio Grande and some of the Gould stocks rose in reflection, presumably, of the near announcement the Gould stocks rose in reflection, pre-sumably, of the near announcement of the Missouri Pacific plans of re-organization, or what will be such in substance. There was no change to-day in either money or sterling ex-change rates, but Saturday is not a day when anything more than an in-tonsiderable (borrowing demand for money for Stock Exchange use asserts itself.

WALL STREET GOSSIP

[Special to The Times-Dispatch.]
NEW YORK, November 12.—Most of the buying in the stock market today, the copper stocks alone excepted, was based on the expectation of a was based on the expectation of a ban's statement more favorable than had been predicted before the close of business Friday. Before that time the street had been led to believe that an entire obliteration of the slender surplus reported at the end of the preceding week would be shown in to-day's statement. It would turn out a physical impossibility it was freely maintained, that those stocks arriving from London and shifted from London to New York loans could be carried here without dipping into reserves, especially at a time when the banks were shipping money into the interior and sending gold to South America. These predictions were somewhat modified Friday, and today were revised entirely on the news that the banks had greatly contracted loans, and that a 5 per cent. call money rate had brought funds from unexpected places.

The bank statement, ordinarily on the favorage producers here and abroad. It had riches-bodge, and Calument and Hecla in there and Riches-bodge, and Calument and Hecla in the served and the Ryan companies, who have long worked together, have presented a new agreement; that the Guergenheimers are draw-companies, who have long worked together, have presented a new agreement; that the Guergenheimers are draw-town may reach close working agreements. Even that is important, but as compared with the early reports it is a reminder of the old saying: "Taperning down to Tim," which Senator Platt used when candidate after candidate and declined a nomination and Mr. Woodruff's name was suggested as a large promptly at noon, was altiations that way have latterly been heavy buyers of the speculative copper stocks.

This opposite opinion of negotiations

The bank statement, ordinarily on the tape promptly at noon, was almost fifteen minutes late. Traders in the offices, puzzled over the delay, wondered whether it was so bad that the exchange was ashamed to put it on the tape or so good that the man in charge of the tape could not believe the figures. It turned out that it was astonishly good, for the average statement was up to sanguing expectations, and the increase of $1,726,000 in reserve in the average statement was up to sanguing expectations, and the increase of $6.630,000 in the actual statement far surpassed any previous forecasts.

Both statements showed a lower of the whole of the statistical position of copper abroad.

expectations, and the increase of $6.630,000 in the actual statement far surpassed any previous forecasts.

Both statements showed a loss of more than $5,000,000 cash, and cash displayed a big contraction in loans with the average statement reporting a decrease of $20,731,000 in the loan account, and the other a decrease of $46,736,000. The loan contractions were brought about to an important extent by the shifting of loans to Canadian financial institutions, one of which alone piaced $15,000,000 in the call loan market and was otherwise explained by the decrease in stock market activity and the appearance of corporate and individual lending. But the location of the stocks, so often represented as sent from London to this city, remained as much a mystery as ever. The suggestion was even ventured that the stocks might not have been sent.

In copper it always has happened that widely different views of the statistical position of the metal, whether one selling agency was sold out and another long for the metal, whether one group was active in the market for copper stocks; and another indifferent, and, very often, whether or not a seller of the metal, whether one group was active in the market for copper stocks; and another indifferent, and, very often, whether or not a seller of the metal, whether one group was active in the market for copper stocks; and another indifferent, and, very often, whether or not a seller of the metal, whether one group was active in the market for copper stocks; and another indifferent, and, very often, whether or not a seller of the metal, whether one group was active in the market for copper stocks; and another indifferent with the producing in gency was sold out and another long for the metal, whether one group was active in the market for copper stocks; and another indifferent with the producing in gency was sold out and another long for the metal, whether one group was active in the market for copper stocks; and another long for the metal, whether one group was considered the prop
